

Hello World

Hello World, I'm so happy to see you
Hello World, I'm glad you're still here
We've heard predictions of gloom
Our world will be ending soon
You've survived again in spite of the things that we do

The sky's still blue and the grass is green
But old trees can't be replaced
We cut them down and burn them up
'til they're gone without a trace

Hello World, I'm so happy to see you
Hello World, I'm glad you're still here
We've heard predictions of gloom
Our world will be ending soon
You've survived again in spite of the things that we do

What have we learned in a thousand years?
Have we learned a thing?
Endangered species dying out
Is the lion still king?

Hello World, I'm so happy to see you
Hello World, I'm glad you're still here
We've heard predictions of gloom
Our world will be ending soon
You've survived again in spite of the things that we do

Take a little bit, give a little more.
Put some back don't ask what for
Think of the future, soon be here
Please don't mess with the atmosphere

Hello World, I'm so happy to see you
Hello World, I'm glad you're still here
We've heard predictions of gloom
Our world will be ending soon
You've survived again in spite of the things that we do

We all can't agree on global warming,
Is it really real?
Nature's giving us a warning
Love our world, it's the only deal

Hello World, I'm so happy to see you
Hello World, I'm glad you're still here
We've heard predictions of gloom
Our world will be ending soon
You've survived again in spite of the things that we do
